Welcome to Tallinn, the European hub for cutting-edge innovation and entrepreneurship and, host to the 2016 Design for Europe summit: Powering Innovation.

Design can have a transformational impact on innovation, boosting business productivity, stimulating jobs and economic growth, enabling effective policymaking and improving public sector service delivery.

Since 2014, Design for Europe has held nearly 100 events across Europe reaching more than 5,000 business leaders, policymakers, public servants, designers and academics in over 50 European cities. Through our unique one-stop platform, we have built a network of design Ambassadors and Experts from across Europe, catalysing design-driven innovation and resulting in significant regional and national impact.

Design for Europe: Powering Innovation brings together professionals at the forefront of design-led innovation, providing a unique opportunity to share insights, best practice and emerging trends on how design delivers transformation in business, government and the not-for-profit sector.

The summit is an interactive opportunity to connect with leaders across Europe, to share evidence on how design drives innovation, consider the skills we need in our workforce for the future, learn how design can address major societal challenges and explore how innovation can be implemented and scaled more effectively.

Design for Europe: Powering Innovation is an opportunity to further build and strengthen the European innovation community of practice and equip businesses, public sector organisations and policymakers with the power to innovate on a global scale.

At the summit, we are using an innovative technology that allows you, the audience, to interact with the presentations and also keep the slides electronically for future reference. Glisser provides the opportunity to voice your opinion by asking the speakers questions, voting in polls and 'liking' slides, all from your device. You also get to see each other's questions and 'like' the ones you most want to hear answered.

What do you need to do?

1. There's nothing to download.
Simply navigate to this webpage in the web browser of the device you are bringing with you: glsr.it/dfe16 (no need for html or www).
 2. Register (only an email address is required)
 3. You're all set for the day. When the first presentation starts, each slide will appear on your smartphone or tablet as it is made available by the speaker.
